The Battle of Life

The true here will endeavor to make the most of life, and to this end the first consideration is a robust constitution. Like a good general on the battle plain, who, when expecting an attack from the enemy, will entrench himself in fortifications, so he, when disease is in the atmosphere or hovering in ambush amid climatic changes, will fortify his system against every encroachment the grim measter may seek to make. Many a grand life has ended for want of timely precaution in the hour of need. When felver and influenza are abroad, when the damp chilly days touch the marrow bones, when effuvia and malaris walk hand in hand, then it is that the system should be fortified by a use of that superb strengthening tonic alterative of Dr. John Buil's Sersaparilla, which keeps the blood pure and the functions regulated, so that disease can not enter the citadel of life.

A MAN no sooner gets eld enough to know how to talk well than he also learns the value of not talking at all.—Atchison Globe.

Palse Witnesses.

There are knows now and then met with who represent certain local bitters and poisonous stimuli as identical with or possessing properties akin to those of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. These scamps only succeed in felisting their trashy compounds upon people unacquainted with the genuine article, which is as much their opposite as day is to night. Ask and take no substitute for the grand remedy for malaria, dyspepsia, constipation, rheumatism and kidney trouble.

Too largs -the old-fashioned pill. Tos reckless in its way of doing business, too. It cleans you out, but it uses you up, and your outraged system rises up against it. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets have a better way. They do just what is needed -no more. Nothing can be more thorough—nothing is as mild and gentle. They're the smallest, cheapest, the easiest to take. One tiny, sugarcoated granule's a gentle lax-ative—three to four are cathartic. WHAT SOME NATIONS SMOKE

Russian cigars are simply long rolls of evil-smelling leaf and are only smoked by the "moujiks," or peasants. Excuss cigars are made of American tobacco, but fail in manipulation. They look bright and "wooden" rather than like a natural-leaf product.

The French cigars are very poor, but as the Government controls the indus-try the people are obliged to use them or pay high prices for Havana goods.

The cigar of the native Bornean living in the Indian archipolago, is a black roll three inches long, tapering to either end, the outer leaf covered with a net-work of gray veins, like a

THE Patagonian cigar is made of 'petihoby' tobacce and is three inches ong, quite straight, of a dull gray-green color. It would take a courageous man to try it, yet the native children smoke them all the time.

Egypt uses a heavy black elgar, shaped like a barrel, not quite three inches long. It looks strong enough to fraw a load of wood and has thick white veins upon its wrapper, which look like pieces of string rolled around it .

Possibly the most expensive cigars ever made were the 20,000 Havanas made for Spanish Marshal Prim as a present for Napoleon III., each cigar being stamped with the imperial N in gold.

They are said to have cost $12,000.

THE Italian cigar is a National institotion. It is eight inches long, with a straw through it, and is remarkable for the fact that the manufacturer exhausts all the fertile resources of his nature in making it so that it will not light.
